PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Faculty, Relatives, and Friends, on behalf of the graduating class of 1943 of Proctor High School, it gives me great pleasure to welcome you here today. I hope you will enjoy listening to how our fine class has progressed since the fatal year of 1931, when we first started down the road to success. We are glad that so few of us have fallen by the wayside, that a goodly number of us remains to reach out for that much-prized diploma, which marks the end of our high school days. Although the members of the class of '43 will soon be scattered far and wide, there will be no separation in our love for Proctor High School and our appreciation of teachers, parents, and friends, who have made our opportunities in education possible.

We pass out into a world of strife and turmoil. It will become our duty to fight for our freedom and to make this a better world in which to live. The struggle may be long and difficult; however, let us remember the words of our class motto, "The Impossible Takes But a Little Longer."

CLASS POEM

As the pines cast their shadows dark,
Presaging coming night,
While, Proctor High, we gather here,
Beneath your cupola white;
Our thoughts go back o'er four short years,
We've spent within your sight.

Our teachers here have taught us
What we might expect of life,
That every rose must have its thorn,
And that success crowns strife;
The world is what we make it,
And trouble now is rife.

And now our days with you are o'er;
Relentlessly time flies,
When coming months stretch into years,
We'll come to realize
E'en though your classes come and go,
Your spirit never dies.

Elaine Gilmore

CLASS SONG

Tune--The Marines Hymn

There were thirty happy Freshmen
In the year of '39.
Who started out to-gether,
The road of knowledge to climb.
The years have passed too quickly,
In study and in play,
And now we stand on the threshold
Of our graduation day.

We will always pledge our loyalty
To grand old P. H. S.,
Her praises now we loudly sing,
For we have passed the test.
A fond farewell dear Proctor High
As we go on our way,
To help our country win the fight
For Freedom's Victory Day.

Faith Broadwell
Dale Higbee

CLASS MOTTO: The impossible takes but a little longer.

CLASS HISTORY

FRESHMAN

The year of 1939 was the beginning of our high school career. It will be remembered by the Senior Class as "the Freshman year, when World War II was on the verge of history making.

Upon entering the Freshman class we noticed a few new faces on the faculty. Miss Hemenway replaced Miss Tilton in Physical Education; Miss Yuill took the place of Miss White. Miss McCormick was in Miss Cole's position, and Mr. Bridge carried on with Mr. Anderson's work. Mr. Wolcott took Miss Hubbard's position in Junior High School.

The "Freshman Reception", an event to which we had looked forward for years, finally occurred. Two weeks after our entrance into High School, along with the new members of the faculty, we were initiated by the Senior Class. The girls wore the usual green bands to signify them as "Freshies", while the boys wore a green band around their necks. In the evening the girls wore boys' trousers inside out, boys' shirts, the new "Upsweep" hair-do, and two different types of shoes and socks. The boys wore girls' skirts and blouses, along with high heeled shoes, and bows in their hair.

Some of our classmates left us before entering high school, among them were Mary and Helen Hleba.

After a few weeks of "Freshie" mistakes and "wanderings in a fog", we became acclimated to our new environment and settled down to work.

SOPHOMORE

In the fall of 1940 the class of '43 again resumed their studies under the able direction of several new teachers. Among them we find Miss Renchan, who vowed she would put Proctor on the map musically.

The French Department started their parlez-vous française under the direction of Miss Stevens.

Mr. Birt, you will remember, stepped in to take the position of coach and physical education teacher.

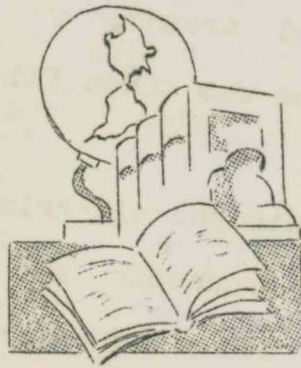

Miss Hubbard came back looking very educated with her B.S. of E. degree to take over the position of History teacher.

Mr. Steward came to fill the position of Manual Training teacher.

Every class put on some sort of entertainment during the year. Not to be left out of any fun, the class decided to sponsor the Sophomore Hop. We made money, only to have it lost on the Junior Prom.

We were saddened by the departure of Mary Rita McLaughlin, Dorothea Ward, who moved to Windsor and Middlebury respectively, and Charles Penzenick, who joined the Army.

JUNIOR

In the fall of 1941, the Juniors reached the third story of their house of knowledge.

As we went to our various classes, we saw a few unfamiliar faces mixed among the teachers of Proctor High. Miss Gould took over the Home Economics Department, Miss Carlisle the Girls' Physical Education and Miss McCammon taught English in the Junior High School.

When once settled, we elected our class officers. John Ravellini was chosen as class president, Richard Allard, vice-president, while Mary Ostrowski assumed the clerical duties of the class.

While our bumps of knowledge swelled and grew and as yet didn't carry all that they could, our treacherous oriental friends broke the flimsy bonds that held our country and theirs together. We were shocked, for this would directly affect us. For our boys and country, we studied harder.

It was at this time that Mr. Joy was taken ill. This lengthened our Christmas vacation to two full weeks.

When mid-years rolled around, we had lost one class member. George Luckachina was taken ill and could not continue with us.

After getting back into the old grind again, three more classmates left us. Mary Bresnehan and Robert Chamberland continued their studies at Mount Saint Joseph's Academy. Elbert Doan accepted a position in a defense plant.

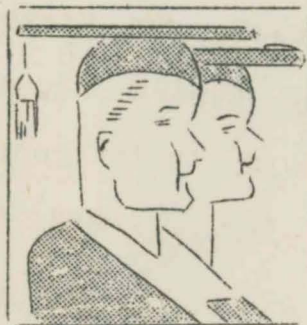

As the assignments grew harder and Spring lurked around the corner, we began to plan the annual Junior Prom. It was not much of a success financially but socially we certainly had a good time.

When spring finally arrived, our activities became more and more numerous. Many of us participated in the Music Festival at Burlington. We also played host to the students of Brandon and Pittsford High Schools when the Tri-Town Music Festival was held here.

Every year, two Junior boys are chosen to go to Boys' State. This year John Ravellini and Marcel Walleth represented the class. Joyce Walsh was chosen to attend Girls' State.

About two weeks before the end of school we all began to worry about final examinations. To our surprise, there were no finals held.

We were all in high spirits on that last sunny day in June, for as the report cards were handed out for the last time that year, we all learned that we had completed our third year successfully and were now Seniors.

SENIOR

September, 1942, finds us trying to fit into the shoes of Seniors who had gone before us. Many familiar faces were seen on the faculty, but among them are some whom we had not met before. In the Physical Education Department we find Mr. Adams replacing Coach Birt, and Miss Wing following in Miss Carlisle's footsteps. Mr. Rising has taken over Miss McCarmon's duties in the Junior High English Department, and Mr. McCarthy has replaced Mr. Wolcott in the Social Studies Classes in Junior High. Miss Renehan has left us, and we find Miss Fairley in the Music Department. We find that cupid hasn't been idle, and is the cause of our losing Miss McCormick. Mrs. Edwin Johnson very capably resumes her duties once more in the Commercial Department. Many alumni remember the days when Mrs. Johnson taught commercial subjects before her marriage, under the name of Miss Colson. Again we are glad to see Mr. Call handling his classes very well-(with the help of his cards). Miss Stevens resumes her work in the Language Department; Miss Gould returns to conduct Home Economics classes. Mr. Steward continues his work in the Manual Training Department, and Mr. Walsh and Miss Hackett again take over their respective classes. Miss Johnson still writes the excuses which admit us to our classes.

During the summer we lost one of our dearest classmates, Richard Erickson. "Dick", as he was known among us, was well liked by all the students and members of the faculty. All who knew him felt his absence deeply.

Soon we decided that it was high time we gave the green Freshmen a proper initiation, so we held the Freshmen Reception late in September. As usual, everyone certainly enjoyed the program, as well as the refreshments consisting of ice cream and cookies.

At the first class meeting the class officers were chosen. Marcel Wallet was elected president; Richard Allard, vice-president; Sabina Yakubec, secretary; and Elaine Gilmore, treasurer. Mr. Walsh was again chosen Class Sponsor.

The Senior play, "Early to Bed, Early to Rise", proved a success. Helga Oscarson, Helen Nelson, Marcel Wallet, Max Eaton, Faith Broadwell, Leo O'Connor, Elaine Gilmore, Rita McGarry, Richard Young, Joyce Walsh, and John Ravellini were members of the cast.

Mr. McCarthy leaves his position to join the armed forces, and Mrs. Walsh takes over. Shortly after, Mr. Steward accepts a position at the Speery Gyroscope, Long Island, New York. Mr. Belcher replaces him in the Manual Training class, and Mr. McGregor conducts classes in the Shop course.

Frances Monahan leaves us to accept a Civil Service position in Washington. Carol Portier has moved to Springfield where she is attending Springfield High School.

As the half year drew to a close, we find another of our classmates leaving us. This time it's Gordon Anderson leaving for the Army.

We were proud to learn that Rita McGarry was chosen D.A.R. girl of our class. She has been active in many school activities.

Also at the half-way mark Miss Wing resigned from her duties as Physical Education Instructor, and is replaced by Miss Macdonald.

Returning from our March vacation, we find that we must call Miss Stevens by her newly-acquired name, Mrs. Farman. Most of us find it rather difficult to get into the habit of addressing her as Mrs. Farman, and she is still Miss Stevens to the majority of the students.

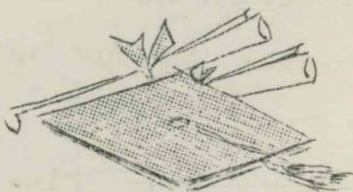

An event which is very popular during the senior year is the basketball game between the boys and girls. Julius Zapponi won the prize for his costume. The girls were rather disappointed when the final whistle blew, and they learned that the score was 32-22 in favor of the boys.

A farewell party was given by our Senior class for John Ravellini, Marcel Wallet, and Ralph Alberico, who later left for the Army. Maxwell Eaton was chosen to replace Marcel as president of the class.

And so, dear classmates, we have reached the goal for which we have striven for twelve long years. May the memories of good old days at Proctor High School remain with us forever.

GRADUATION

Four years ago together,
A Freshman class we stood
With excellent intentions
That sometimes turned to good.

We'll take no tearful leaving,
We'll say no sad good-byes,
For, though our hearts are heavy,
The world before us lies.

Our school days have been happy,
But now 'tis time to go.
Behind are recollections;
Ahead our futures glow.

To you, oh, Alma Mater,
Our loyalty we give;
This be your pride and honor;
You taught us how to live.

CLASS PROPHECY

General Richard Young has just published a new book entitled "How to Become an Army Officer in Three Easy Lessons." In the book General Young tells of his own experiences as a rookie and how he came to be a high ranking officer.

Julius Zapponi is now proprietor of "Margaret's Beauty Shoppe" located at 120-Fifth Avenue, New York City. The business is apparently doing well.

Rita McGarry is now working at "Richard's Drive-In Restaurant" located in Slab City. Specialties are "Green Mt. Pickles" and "Toasted Hot Dogs."

Maxwell Eaton is playing with the Allen City Night-Crawlers, a big league baseball team. Max is professionally known, as "Slugger Eaton", his batting average for the year is 100.

Edward Kamuda is now running a meat market on the Wilhelmstrosse in Berlin. From German reports we hear that Edward sells a fine grade of sausages. He also has a bar where he sells schnapps.

Faith Broadwell is a missionary in Japan. She likes her work very much and says that the new colonization of Japan by the Chinese is very successful.

Joyce Walsh is an instructor at the "William's Flying School" in Rutland. She has to her credit 500 hours of flying.

Elaine Gilmore is now a highly paid executive in the Curtiss-Wright Aircraft Corporation in Buffalo, New York. She advanced very quickly because she devised the new Curtiss Too-Too-1 plane, popularly known as the "Flying Locomotive."

Leo O'Connor has applied for a job with John L. Lewis. Lewis received his application and since he has run out of breath, hired him with the understanding of a two dollar raise if he was efficient. Leo has hopes of being Lewis' partner before long.

Richard Allard, formerly head of the U. S. O. is now promoter of Tony Galento. From what we hear Tony is in fine shape, still drinking a gallon of beer a day.

Mary Taranovich is a manager of a Beauty Salon in New York. Mary having the qualities of charm, appreciation for beauty and harmony will succeed, we're sure.

Mary Ostrowski served with the Women's Auxiliary Marine Corps during the war and has been following a Marine ever since.

Ruth Blaise is now a teacher in the Blue Ridge Mountains. She is teaching a school sponsored by the President of the United States. She writes that the Southern rate of illiteracy is decreasing. Good work, Ruth. Keep it up!

Playboy John Ravellini is now spending the winter in Beverly Hills, California. Johnny made millions of dollars by selling cod liver oil.

Dale Higbee, the famous concert flutist, has just left New York to tour Africa. He plans to give lessons to the natives there and in return he will receive his hut and board. I think Dale's getting the better part of the bargain, don't you?

Ralph Alberico's head of the First National chain of stores in New England. He started a club and now has a pretty easy job.

Paul Citorik is spending a few days at his home in Proctor. He is President of the "Burgess-Citorik Automobile Corporation" in Cleveland, Ohio.

Helga Oscarson is now painting signs for "Marcel's Motor Express" of Rutland. When Helga was in high school she was interested in Commercial Arts.

We hear that Hilda Beretta has succeeded Winchell who has run out of breath on the Jergens Lotion program. We're sure Hilda will make a wonderful announcer.

Marcel Wallett, another member of the class of '43, enjoyed Africa so much during his sojourn there, that he bought farm and married one of the natives of the Ubangi tribe.

A clipping from a recent New York Times will prove interesting to the class of '43. It states that Miss Helen Nelson has just been chosen by Wendell Wilkie, who finally made the presidency, as his private secretary. Of course, you all know that Helen is engaged to Joe Snuckelgruber, the heavyweight boxing champion, who is a multi-millionaire.

Barbara Riley is also in New York. She is the leading actress in "Jessie the Thriller," the play which has broken all records for its fourth-season run on Broadway. Apparently Barbara still retains that sweet charm that she had in high school.

We understand that Irene Kivisto is very efficient in commercial work and has hopes of becoming a stenographer for the Allard Printing Company. During her spare time she is a model at the Larson Photograph Agency.

When the war is over, Gordon Anderson has a position co-starring with Tommy Harman, the famous football player. Since Gordon is very good in this sport, we expect him to outdo Tommy in the near future.
